HOBBIES

JAKKAMPUDI SINDHURA THULASI

My immense interest in doodling paved a path for me to the creative industry. The first step towards following my passion as my career was doing my bachelors in Visual Communication. I love to see the details in every small thing. I first tend to sketch my mind and then start with the designing. I'm an empathizer more than a sympathizer, which helps me perfectly for user-centric projects. I always put myself in the other person's shoes.

After doing few internships in India, I'm currently pursuing Dual master's in Visual and Web design at Scuola Politecnica di Design, Milan, which I believe is bringing me a step closer to my dream of creating a space for myself in this world of design and also to translate these designs into life with my newly found interest - Frontend Developing.
